

New OhioMeansJobs resources available

It's important that students see a connection between what they are learning and future career options. They also need tools to help them start to prepare for their dream jobs. The Ohio Department of Education is committed to providing resources and tools that help students prepare for life after high school.

Ohio's free career planning system – OhioMeansJobs K-12 – offers comprehensive, career exploration tools, online training and resources to:

- ◆ Help students learn more about their career interests and in-demand jobs;
- ◆ Build resumes;
- ◆ Search for college and training programs;
- ◆ Create a budget based on future expenses; and,
- ◆ Develop meaningful academic and career plans for high school and beyond.

Students can access the recently added Work Values tool to see what occupations fit their work style preferences. Based on the O*Net work values, this gives students a new understanding of how the values of achievement, independence, recognition, relationships, support and working conditions impact career satisfaction.
